IEDO CONF PARIS 2022

International exchanges on life-saving drones

The IEDO association announces the opening of the first international drone conference for emergency actors: firefighters, police officers, customs officers, coast guards and rescue associations.

In Paris, on January 12 and 13, 2022, at the Cité des Sciences et de l'Industrie, will be held the first professional conference IEDO CONF organized by the international association of general interest IEDO which gathers the drone teams specialized in crisis and emergency situations.

Aimed mainly at firefighters, law enforcement officers, customs officers, medical and paramedical personnel, military personnel with rescue missions and rescue associations, the conference aims to create a space for international exchange on the use of UAVs in rescue missions or securing human lives.

Vendelin CLICQUES, president of the IEDO association, declares, "It is essential to promote and support international exchanges on the use of this advanced technology that saves lives every week in the world. By exchanging information among themselves, emergency responders are becoming increasingly aware of the infinite possibilities of drones across the spectrum of rescue and public safety missions.

A space for exchange

The conference center of the Cité des Sciences et de l'Industrie will host in its 900-seat amphitheater a multitude of professional conferences of firefighters, police officers or associations, experts in UAVs, from Belgium, Croatia, Spain, the United States, France, Portugal and the United Kingdom.

A specific meeting room, the blue room, will be dedicated to exchanges between law enforcement agencies on confidential topics.

About thirty exhibition stands will allow drone market players to exhibit the latest technologies and systems related to drones.

The online platform IEDO CONF

Inaugurated on November 5, 2022, the website <http://www.iedoconference.org> was created for all drone specialists from different public safety organizations (fire department, police department, customs service and rescue association) and for non-specialists who wish to discover and understand this technology.

The website allows emergency actors to register for the 2-day conference, but companies in the drone market also have access to this event as a visitor, exhibitor or sponsor.
